HORIZON launches New Apple Mobile App for Home Inspectors New Field Data Collection Tool reduces report writing time

Toronto (July 16, 2012) Carson Dunlop announced that their HORIZON Report Writing Software has released a new free Apple mobile app enabling home inspectors to use their iPhone or iPad to collect data in the field with no need for an Internet connection. Horizon Mobile empowers home inspectors to efficiently record inspection results and photos with their Apple iPhone or iPad.

Horizon Mobile allows home inspectors to quickly select report items and add notes, and to take photos that drop into exactly the right place in the report automatically. Home Inspectors no longer need to carry a camera, clipboard, notepads or a computer to record their findings.

"Report writing has moved to a new level with home inspectors now able to use their Apple or Android smartphone or tablet to collect data and take photos on a roof, in an attic or in a crawl space," commented Alan Carson, President of Carson Dunlop. "Horizon Mobile is a game changing free app supported on both Apple and Android devices that helps home inspectors write better reports in less time."

According to Tom Axelrad of Axelrad & Associates, Home Inspections, LLC in Metairie, LA who beta tested Horizon Mobile commented "Horizon Mobile made collecting field information faster and more conveniently than ever since I could now make my entries and take my photos right from the palm of my hand. It is a great new tool for home inspectors."
