Milgard Offers BIM Objects for Montecito® Series Windows & Doors, and Ultra™/WoodClad™ Series Windows & Doors, and Quiet Line™ Series Windows

TACOMA, WA (July 19, 2012) – Milgard® Windows & Doors now has Building Information Modeling (BIM) objects available for the Montecito® Series vinyl windows and doors, Ultra™/WoodClad™ Series fiberglass windows and doors and Quiet Line™ Sound Control Series windows.

BIM objects are information-rich, 3D models that are widely used by architects throughout the design process. With the addition of these BIM objects, architects now have a valuable resource when they choose Quiet Line Series or Montecito Series for their design projects.

Montecito Series award winning vinyl windows and doors are manufactured specifically for new construction installations. Montecito Series windows and doors come in a broad range of operating styles and include innovative features like our award-winning SmartTouch® lock.

Ultra and WoodClad Series windows and doors are designed to match the beauty and profile of solid wood windows, while providing the strength, durability and performance of fiberglass windows. Milgard's own fiberglass production process enables us to make the complex profiles required for the look of painted wood windows on the exterior, with the option of choosing fiberglass or natural wood for the interior.

Milgard Quiet Line Sound Control windows provide the best in sound control performance, energy efficiency and weather protection. Quiet Line windows let in 30 percent less noise than our already quiet standard windows. Plus they include the same high-quality vinyl compound and attention to detail that all Milgard windows are known for. Quiet Line windows are the perfect solution for homes and buildings near an airport, overlooking a freeway or facing frequent environmental noise of any kind.

All Milgard windows and doors come with the Full Lifetime Warranty.
