Healthy Life Screening Announces New Venture with Akron General Medical Center

Healthy Life Screening is partnering with Akron General Medical Center to provide preventive cardiovascular and biometric screening services to corporations, patients and the Northeast Ohio community. The mission and vision of this partnership will help improve the health and welfare of the people in the community by early detection of cardiovascular disease that could lead to long-term health problems.

Healthy Life Screening will offer its expertise, skills and knowledge to manage cardiovascular screening programs with Akron General Medical Center throughout the community. Concurrently, Healthy Life Screening will be offering Akron General Medical Center's expert cardiovascular biometric skills to all of Healthy Life Screening current and future customers.

Barry A. Easterling, Healthy Life Screening's President and CEO, said, "Healthy Life Screening is very pleased to be partnering with Akron General Medical Center. Because of the synergy and high quality standards of the two organizations, we will be able to offer great customer service and a superior outreach program to the community."

About Healthy Life Screening

Located in Akron, Ohio, Healthy Life Screening was started in 2006 offering a range of preventive health screens on asymptomatic individuals for the presence of cardiovascular disease. The screening consists of five tests: left ventricle dysfunction, peripheral artery disease, abdominal aortic, carotid artery screening (including carotid intima-media thickness) and blood pressure.

The company quickly established itself as a high-quality services provider in the Midwest, attracting hundreds of new clients. The services are offered on-site to corporations, unions, schools and medical institutions for the benefit of their employees, members and patients.
