Carson Dunlop Launches Free Home Inspection Career Sessions

Career sessions educate about the Benefits & Opportunities in the Home Inspection Profession

Toronto, (August 1, 2012), Carson Dunlop announces the introduction of online information sessions designed to educate and raise awareness of the benefits of home inspection as a career. These thirty minute webinars will be conducted by Carson Dunlop professionals who will discuss the characteristics of the industry and the options it holds for its practitioners and those interested in pursuing it as a profession.

“We understand that making a career change can be a complex and difficult which is why we developed this new informational webinar,” commented Robert Ho, Vice President of Education at Carson Dunlop. “The presentation will offer an insider perspective on the profession that will allow attendees to make an informed decision on how a career in home inspection can be a rewarding and challenging path.”

These sessions will discuss the important issues that people face when choosing their education and careers, as well as provide insight as to how Carson Dunlop alumni have achieved success and benefited from the program. According to a recent American Society of Home Inspectors 2011 operations survey, more than 23% of inspectors in the industry earned more than $100,000 in revenue in 2011.
