[Description] Carb Back-Loading Review Released by AloeVera.com to explore details of John Kiefer's latest diet.

Carb Back-Loading is an innovative fitness plan designed to help people burn fat quickly and build muscle. Now, a new review is being published to explore this popular diet.

John Kiefer is quickly becoming a household name in the fitness community for providing people with what seemed like the unobtainable only months ago - eat like a pig, burn fat and get ripped.

The secret is called Carb Back-Loading and Kiefer put all his workout secrets into his new book, which is already becoming one of the most popular e-books on the market.

"The concept of carb back-loading is something that really struck our interest," said AloeVera Editor Ben Danson. "At it's foundation, it really makes sense, but to really be successful, Kiefer's book is a must have. He reveals tricks and secrets that are helping people burn fat and get toned quickly."

It its core, the system involves limiting carb intake in the morning, hitting the gym and loading up on carbs in the evening. The diet actually requires people eat foods like pastries, pizza, desserts and even peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

It's all about using the power and energy carbs provide to make the most of a workout and backloading is timed to take advantage of the body's metabolism to naturally burn fat. Loading up on carbs at certain parts of the day is actually a crucial part of getting toned.

"When we first started working on this review, we didn't believe a system like this could work," damson said. "But all the scientific research and the experience of those who have implemented Kiefer's strategy really proved us wrong. This system is going to be a big hit."
