

HAVE YOU BEEN ROBBED BY YOUR BANK?

The banking scandal has made us all question the advice we received and the financial products we unwittingly signed up for

Are you sitting down? Credit Claims have now reclaimed £7m worth of compensation for their clients in just three and a half years.

If you suspect you were mis-sold a financial product, or were badly advised, then you too should be compensated.

Payment Protection Insurance or PPI is only the tip of the iceberg. At Credit Claims they also challenge poor investment advice, mis-sold mortgages and interest rate swaps.

As financial claims specialists, Credit Claims can investigate cases going back more than 10 years.

“Usually between the customer and the bank there is enough paperwork to make a case for compensation. Don’t forget, if you were mis-sold a financial product, or received a poor level of service from the high street banks, then this is money you are entitled to,” said Business Development Director Ajaz Khan.

For example, perhaps you were sold a risky investment by one of the major banks? You lost money and yet the risks were not properly explained? Then you could be due thousands of pounds in compensation.

You can take up a claim with your bank yourself but around 80 per cent of complaints are handled through companies like Credit Claims.

“ YOU COULD BE DUE THOUSANDS OF POUNDS IN COMPENSATION ”

“Some people feel intimidated, others don’t know where to start. The fact is we are experts in handling these cases. We strive to make things as simple and hassle-free as possible, speeding-up the process of payment for our clients,” added Ajaz.

The big banks have set aside billions of pounds to compensate customers and so far they have only paid out a small proportion of it. It is not just individuals who can claim, business owners need to check their paperwork too.

“For example businesses may have been mis-sold insurance on loans and overdrafts or been persuaded to go for interest-rate swap deals. Again, if you suspect the banks gave you and your business bad advice, or sold you an unsuitable product, then come and talk to us,” said Ajaz.

Credit Claims offer a no win, no fee service. Their customer service isn’t just excellent... it’s award-winning!

For the past two years running they have been highly commended for customer excellence in the Bolton & Bury Business Awards.

“We always like to under-promise and over-deliver, reclaiming more for our clients than perhaps they had expected. The banks are also more willing to listen now. They have been hit by big fines and know they need to get it all sorted out,” added Ajaz.
