High profile marketing trainer and business consultant Mike Bashi has again hit the headlines with Listgenesis.com, his new lead generation training program. This new website has been designed for people looking to have more leads going through their squeeze pages or online funnels. Listgenesis is an excellent program for generation of leads that can be equally useful for business startups and businesses that already have a model in place. Mike Bashi is one of the most successful business coaches at present with thousands of students spread all across the globe. The release of this new training module has been welcomed with great enthusiasm by the online business community.

Lead generation is the process of generating customer interest about products or services offered by a company. Continuous expansion of online database of subscribers is essential for the growth of any business. Listgenesis is a combination of three modules comprising of several high quality training videos. The first module discusses the basic principle of list building. In the second module, the members are taught to create their sales funnel. Finally, traffic is sent to the optin page for list building in the last module. These videos offer highly effective guidelines to achieve highest optin rates spending very little.

This entire video tutorial is now available free of charge for the members of Listgenesis.com. Only a valid email address is sufficient to gain access to these three modules of high quality lead generation training. Official sources have revealed that many members of the program have already benefited a great deal from this tutorial. Talking about the uniqueness of the program, Mr. Bashi says, "This same blueprint available in List Genesis helps me build a list of minimum 80+ leads per day in any market and grows my residual income by about $45.60/day that gets added to my bottom line in monthly residual income. It is the same exact steps I use to build my list as of this year 2012".

About the Company: Listgenesis.com is a unique business training website developed by acclaimed business coach Michael Bashi. This is one of the most efficient lead generation programs available on the market.
