Denver, Colorado – September, 5 2012 – Cologix™, a network neutral interconnection and colocation company, announced today that Cloud Data Corp, a wholly owned subsidiary of Mely Corp (OTCBB: MELY), the developers of the proprietary Sproq Network, have chosen the Cologix Vancouver data centre to expand their cloud based technology into Canada. Cologix will provide Cloud Data Corp colocation and interconnection services from Cologix's Harbour Centre carrier hotel data centre and Meet-Me-Room (MMR) located at 555 West Hastings in downtown Vancouver.

Cloud Data Corp provides customers with the necessary tools to build web applications in the cloud and the support system needed to maintain them. "After a successful beta launch, we are thrilled to be expanding our network to Vancouver," stated Shone Anstey, President Cloud Data Corp. "As we evaluated data centres in Vancouver, we appreciated Cologix's neutral access to dense connectivity that will ensure scalability and the fact that we found a partner that is not going to compete with us for customers. Our new position in the premier carrier hotel in Vancouver continues a strong start to our Sproq Network rollout and we'll look forward to opportunities to expand with Cologix in the future."

"The Sproq Network enables their customers to build their own applications in the cloud and we are delighted to support their expansion into Canada," stated Sean Maskell, President, Cologix Canada. "Customers like Cloud Data Corp are helping us to build out a robust cloud ecosystem where technology providers, service providers and end users can all access applications seamlessly, while minimizing network risks and costs."
