

Cheap Web Hosting Service May Not Be the Ultimate Solution for Building a New Website, Suggests Popular Review Website Hostmonopoly.

Renowned business trainer Mike Bashi's training and review website Hostmonopoly suggest that choosing a cheap web hosting service without looking at the features can be dangerous for a business. Hostmonopoly is a free online training platform that has been created by Mr. Bashi after reviewing all website hosting companies. The findings of these detailed reviews are available in a free video in Hostmonopoly.

The dangers of blindly choosing a cheap web hosting company has been revealed recently by Hostmonopoly.com, a comprehensive review website from acclaimed corporate trainer and consultant Michael Bashi. This website presents a free video disclosing the findings of research conducted by Mr. Bashi and his colleagues on all website hosting services. Within a very short time, this free tutorial has emerged as a top review website for people looking to build their new website. One may recall that Mr. Bashi has developed a series of business coaching websites for the online business enthusiasts over the last few years. The highly effective training and review video in Hostmonopoly.com can be accessed just by providing a valid email address.

Starting a new business is certainly an expensive affair, and many business owners often settle for cheap web hosting services to cut costs. The success or failure of an online business depends a great deal on the dependability of the website. An unreliable hosting service provider can jeopardize the goodwill of a business and result in loss of time and money. Domain availability, bandwidth availability, technical support, reliability of the server, etc. are some of the parameters that should be given more importance than the price while choosing the website host, according to Mr. Bashi. Taking a decision without considering these factors may result in serious problems, in the long run.

Mr. Bashi and his team have revealed the name of the most recommendable website hosting company in this website after using each of them for a minimum period of one month. It is also possible to receive highly effective training on hosting account management from this website. Talking about the dangers of selecting a cheap web hosting service, Mr. Bashi says, "There is no harm in choosing a cheap service provider. However, the foremost priority should be to ensure that the company has all the essential features that are must for a dependable website".

About Hostmonopoly.com: Hostmonopoly.com is a review website launched by noted business consultant Michael Bashi. This website helps entrepreneurs find out the best web hosting service provider with a comprehensive, free training video.

Contact:
Mr. Michael Bashi

<http://www.hostmonopoly.com>