

COLOGIX WELCOMES STACKPOP TO CHANNEL PARTNER PROGRAM

Strategic partner to represent Cologix's North American, network neutral colocation platform

Denver, Colorado – September 12, 2012 – Cologix™, a network neutral interconnection and colocation company, announced today that they have partnered with Stackpop, an online B2B marketplace for Internet infrastructure, to represent Cologix's North American colocation platform.

“Cologix partnered with Stackpop because they provide a unique marketplace that enables customers to quickly and efficiently build high performance network infrastructures of which carrier neutral colocation is an important piece,” said Todd Coleman, Chief Operating Officer, Cologix. “Cologix's North American network neutral data centers are all represented in Stackpop's marketplace and we are already pleased with the results of our partnership.”

Cologix operates in 11 network neutral data centers, including the major carrier hotels across five markets including: Dallas, Minneapolis, Montreal, Toronto, and Vancouver. Stackpop's marketplace helps customers find and manage their optimal infrastructure profile through an intuitive and easy-to-use online platform.

“Cologix has the unique advantage of offering dense connectivity in network neutral environments, which many of our customer's value,” said Jason Evans, Chief Executive Officer, Stackpop. “We rely on our trusted partners to offer the optimal infrastructure solutions for our customers and we are proud to add Cologix to the marketplace.”
