Valdata Systems Offers Free Formulation Software

Chemical Management Company Offers a Free Single-User Version of its Recipe Manager Software

Sept. 24, 2012: Valdata Systems, the Chemical Management System provider, is offering a free single-user version of its popular Recipe Manager formulation software package on its website.

Recipe Manager was designed with the Formulator in mind. It is the perfect solution to streamline the recipe/formula development process. Recipe Manager provides a standardized method to develop and store recipes including both ingredients and procedures, and can generate batch documents both in paper form and electronically through the Manufacturing Execution System.

"We are so confident in the value of our Recipe Manager software that we want everyone to be able to try it out at no cost. It is a great opportunity for potential Valdata Systems customers to get a taste of how our Chemical Management modules can improve productivity and simplify their workload."
Susan Balsamello, Marketing Director
