

ANIMAL & DOG LIABILITY INSURANCE

Your pets may be more of a liability to you than you realize. In fact, many dog breeds are specifically excluded from traditional homeowners policies. That means that anything from digging and playful nips to injurious bites or even provoked attacks could easily leave you vulnerable to a devastating lawsuit. Did you know that 4.7 million dog bites happen every year—making dog-related damage the biggest cause of homeowner's insurance claims? As a result, many insurance companies are limiting dog bite insurance coverage or excluding animal liability coverage altogether. With increasingly strict state and local regulations being enforced across the country, animal liability and dog bite insurance coverage are things that every dog owner should consider.

Dog Liability & Dog Bite Insurance

The need for dog liability insurance is on the rise across the United States. More and more homeowner's insurance companies are excluding or even denying coverage for certain types of dog breeds they identify as dangerous or vicious. Pet Protection Pak program is able to help you place dog liability insurance in effect for your best friends.

My Dog Has been Deemed Dangerous or Vicious

Counties and states across the country are describing dogs with a bite history as dangerous or vicious. They are requiring owners of these dogs to carry dog bite liability insurance in order to keep their best friend. If you have a dog that has been determined dangerous or vicious, contact the Pet Protection Pak team today.

You don't have to lose your best friend.

Check your Homeowner's Policy

Often time, homeowners insurance policies EXCLUDE specific breeds and sometimes all breeds of dogs from being covered by their insurance policy. What can that mean for you? Anything from an injury-causing bite, to digging a hole in your neighbor's yard can leave you wide open to a potential lawsuit. Are you and your assets protected in the event you find yourself in this situation?
