Nyrius® ARIES Series Continues to Send Wireless HD Waves Through Audio/Video Industry

The Nyrius ARIES Pro Wireless HD Transmitter gives TV viewers, film-goers and gamers more room for wireless HDMI signal transfers than ever before

NIAGARA FALLS, ON, October 4, 2012 – Nyrius® is proud to introduce the latest innovation in the ARIES series with the Nyrius® ARIES™ Pro Wireless HD Transmitter. Part of the wireless HD home audio and video solutions line, the ARIES™ Pro streams content from laptops, desktop computers, cable boxes, satellite receivers, Blu-ray® players, PS3®, Xbox® or any HD device to an HDTV wirelessly. Enjoy content on the big screen without the hassle of running expensive, messy cables. The signal transfers 1080p resolution up to 160 feet away, the longest range available on the market. Released in September, the ARIES™ Pro is one of several Nyrius products that provide wireless solutions for avid home audio and video enthusiasts, and a determined leader in this consumer electronics field.

The Nyrius® ARIES™ Pro HDMI transmitter is the size of a USB flash driver and powered through USB. Moreover, the HDMI signals can pass through walls and floors without compromising picture quality and continue providing uncompressed 3D content and 1080p audio and video with zero latency. With no software required, the ARIES™ Pro connects directly to an HDMI port and is capable of connecting up to eight transmitters to one receiver, with an included remote to switch between the sources. "A unique feature that sets this wireless audio and video system apart from the competition is the ability to connect your wireless keyboard and mouse to this device and have full control of your PC on an HDTV even if the laptop or desktop is in another room," says Deepak Jain, Managing Director of CWD. The Nyrius® ARIES™ Pro's strong wireless HDMI signal transfer and versatile delivery makes this system a must-have for any home theater set-up.

The Nyrius® ARIES™ Pro is available on Amazon.com for $219.99 plus free shipping, a one-year warranty and lifetime live customer support.
