

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SEEKER® from Quotium Technologies awarded “Innovation of the Year” at IT-SA 2012, the IT security expo at Nuremberg

Paris, France. 17th of October, 2012 – Quotium Technologies, an innovator in the application security and performance markets, announces today that its leading application security solution, Seeker®, has been awarded “Innovation of the Year” at the IT security expo held on 16-18 October 2012 at Nuremberg. IT-SA is one of the largest tradeshows focusing on IT security in Europe, attracting over 5000 visitors yearly.

“We are proud to receive this award, which is a recognition by our peers of our dedication to innovation at Quotium.” said Ofer Maor, CTO of Quotium, “Seeker is today the most innovative solution for accurate detection of vulnerabilities while eliminating false positives for all applications”

“We are happy to bring innovation to German market through Seeker,” noted Stefan Strobel, CEO of cirosec, a German-based IT-security consulting and integration company expertising in providing vendor neutral consulting for complex security problems. “We are known for our ability to select the products that fit best for the individual customer problems and requirements, and Seeker is one of them.”

About Seeker®

Seeker is an innovative solution developed to pinpoint security flaws from the very beginning of the application development cycle. Entirely automated, the process requires no security expertise for its operation. This solution has been recognized as a major innovation in the security field, most notably by a leading analyst firm and at the 2011 RSA conference in the US.

About Quotium

Quotium Technologies is a European software vendor, headquartered in Paris La Défense, with subsidiaries in London, New York and Tel Aviv. Quotium is an expert in the management of business applications in terms of Security, Performance and Availability. Quotium’s products answer the needs of enterprise customers, with over 200 active references (including 15 from the CAC-40). The company is strongly oriented towards innovation with 50% of its staffing allocated to R&D.

More about Quotium: <http://www.quotium.com>

About Cirosec GmbH

Cirosec is a leading security consulting and integration company in Germany, founded by recognized security professionals with many years of experience in the security. Among cirosec's customers are large banks as well as multinational industries. cirosec's focus is mainly on innovative security technologies such as application security, wireless security, security for sensible data, information security and risk management, APT protection, IT forensic and vulnerability management. Additional focus is on audits and penetration tests of system environments and applications, incident handling, forensic analyses and trainings

More about cirosec: <http://www.cirosec.de/>