

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE-

Prominent Scottsdale Personal Injury Attorney Firm Responds to Increasing Bicycle Use By Specializing in Bicycle Accidents

Scottsdale, Arizona, October 25, 2012- Bicycling is not just a past time for children anymore. The Lance Armstrong case has shown that it is big business. Cities such as Atlanta, GA have shown that it is a major answer to rush hour congestion with the opening of the 5th and West Peachtree Bike Project in October 2012. Arizona changed its bike laws in 2011 and proposed more changes to make commuting by bike even easier. Thanks to these developments and rising energy prices, more adult Americans are riding bicycles as part of their daily commute than ever.

More bicycle commuters on the roads means more accidents, as bicyclists and motorists interact in greater numbers. Scottsdale, AZ is no exception to this trend; especially given the city was named as a Gold Circle recipient by the League of American Bicyclists for its bicycle friendly policies and facilities in September 2011. This ever increasing risk of bicycle accidents creates the need for a Scottsdale bicycle accident attorney who specializes in and is familiar with the unique characteristics of these types of accidents.

The law firm of Wade & Nysather has answered that need. The firm currently handles other personal injury and accident cases, but has decided to focus their 20 years of experience on bicycle accident cases in Scottsdale and the surrounding area. This makes them well-equipped to handle the specific issues and laws pertaining to these types of cases that do not arise in typical motor vehicle cases. Additionally, their policy of only taking compensation after a client is paid allows even the most budget-conscious family to have access to quality legal representation.
