

Reputed New Jersey House Alarm Service Provider Announces the Launch of their Official Blog.

Elite Security Services, the most trusted home security company this region, has just launched their company blog to educate the New Jersey house alarm users about simple safety tips that can help them keep burglars away from home. The company has experienced remarkable growth since its formation almost a year ago and presently offers their low cost security service throughout Canada and America.

New Jersey house alarm users can now avail free safety tips from the nation's leading home protection service provider Elite Security Services. The company has just launched their official blog to educate the home owners about simple techniques to build a safe home. Elite Security Services is one of the fastest expanding security service providers in the United States that was formed last year. Their low cost home protection packages have been continuously making news in the industry. In addition to their efficient home surveillance service, the company is also highly acclaimed throughout New Jersey for their active participation in different initiatives to build a crime free society.

The introduction of the official blog of the most preferred New Jersey house alarm company is the brain child of the company owner Mr. Paul Shakuri. He is a well known home protection consultant with years of experience in this industry. The renowned security expert would be offering free safety tips for homeowners through his company's recently launched blog. Announcing the launch of the blog, he stated, "Living a safe life is not only about installation of security systems. Following simple things in our everyday life can make our homes safe from intruders. The objective of this blog is to help you all with some of those simple tips".

New posts would be added regularly to the blog to keep readers updated with the latest developments in the New Jersey house alarm industry. The readers would also be able to find answers to their security related concerns from Mr. Shakuri. The launch of this new blog by Elite Security Services has been appreciated by the security industry experts in this region. The company would continue their efforts to eradicate organized crime from New Jersey with many similar initiatives, according to reliable company sources.

About the Company: Elite Security Services is a rapidly growing company in the home security industry. They offer highly efficient and economical home security solutions in America and Canada.

Contact

Paul Shakuri

Phone: 800-880-9569

Website: <http://www.YourAlarmNow.com>