

CARSPY IS AN APPLICATION LIKE NO OTHER THAT ALLOWS YOU TO VIEW ALL THE RARE CARS YOU'VE NEVER SEEN BEFORE

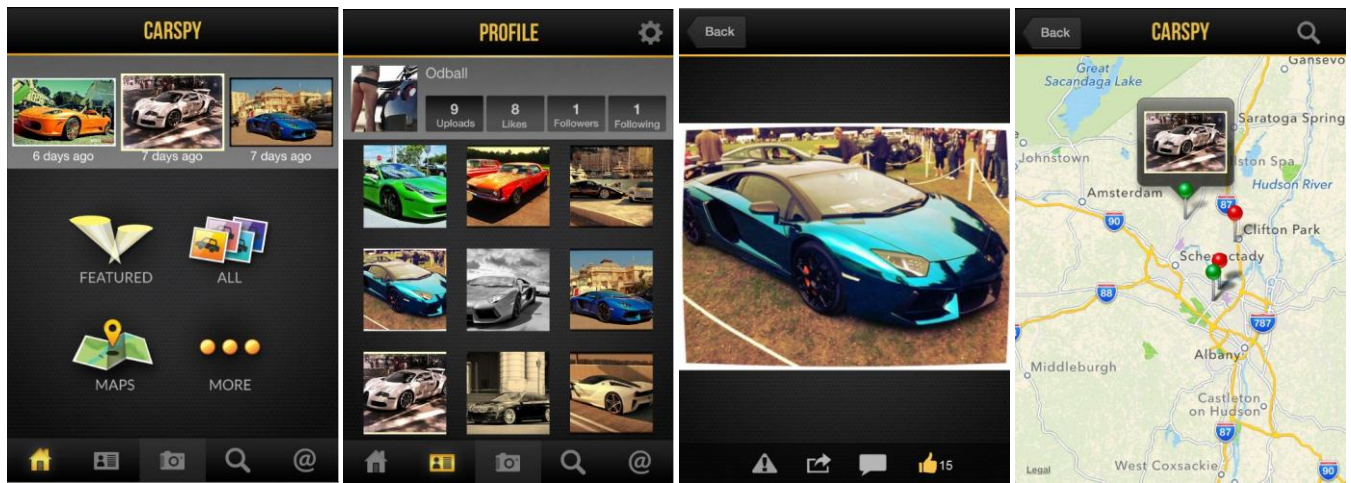

LETS CAR ENTHUSIAST SEE ALL THE CARS THEY NEVER KNEW WERE DOWN THE ROAD FROM THEM

Each and every day there are hundreds of pictures of exotic and rare cars posted on sites such as Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, and Flickr. Sharing photos has never been easier, so why not have an application specifically for cars? A picture of a Lamborghini shouldn't be with a picture of a hamburger. This is where CarSpy steps in.

The idea was to start an application where everyone can share the cars they see on the street, car shows, and just about anywhere else. This idea has come to fruition in the form of CarSpy. This app will soon become the best place to share your pictures of any type of car, from a Koenigsegg Agera R, to a Lamborghini Gallardo. It's not just limited to the high-end exotic and luxury cars; it also caters to any type of car from a classic muscle, to a slammed import.

CarSpy allows users to take a photo right on the spot, or upload a previously taken shot. They can then edit the picture in many different ways, similar to Instagram. These pictures can then be shared on Facebook and Twitter. Along with sharing, the app also gives users their own personal profile, which showcases their pictures and has the option to be followed by others.

One other unique feature to CarSpy is the ability to share locations where the cars have been spotted. A map feature has been integrated right into the app, which shows spots from all around the world, and most importantly, the cars near you. There could be a two million dollar Bugatti Veyron right down the road, and they wouldn't know. Now everyone will with CarSpy.
