

DAVID E. STEVENS

David E. Stevens is a former Navy Commander and F-18 fighter pilot. A self-professed adrenaline junky who loves science and technology, he holds engineering degrees from Cornell and The University of Michigan, with graduate work in human factors and astrophysics. During the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, Dave served as the Navy Strike Operations Officer for the Persian Gulf. He also test-piloted new fighters, received an aviation patent, and with a Top Secret clearance, led classified defense programs.

Stevens has penned the only science based apocalyptic metaphysical techno thriller in existence by creating a story that takes the reader on an adventure that unfortunately could become only too real.

Preventing his burning fighter from crashing into a neighborhood, Navy Commander Josh Logan ejects ... too late. Critically injured, he's offered a new life and mission - exploit highly classified military technology to stop a global cataclysm. The price? He'll be dead to everyone he knows.

WHY YOU'LL LOVE THIS BOOK:

What if you were seriously injured and you were offered a new life and a new body?

Did you know a 100 meter comet or asteroid would obliterate a city? Did you know it could be stopped?

Does quantum mechanics require a supreme being to start the universe?

“Inspiring, thought provoking, and impossible to put down. Should make a blockbuster film.”

Fred Miller, Producer When Angels Sing starring Harry Connick Jr.

“Resurrect successfully bridges cutting-edge science and metaphysics, while providing a roller-coaster ride. Imagine a collaboration between Tom Clancy and C. S. Lewis.”

Terry Burns, award winning author and Literary Agent

“Thrilling ... can only come from someone who’s ‘been there done that.’ “

Admiral Joe Dyer, Chief Test Pilot of the Navy, COO iRobot

“A must read. If you like Clancy, Crichton, Collins or Cussler, you’ll love this book!”

Lila Lee Person, author
