

American Chute Systems Now Sells Trash Chute Doors for Proper Safety and Maintenance Needs

Having functioning trash chutes with sealable doors is important for maintaining building code standards and can prevent serious threats, such as fire, from causing damage or hurting people. American Chute Systems - <http://americanchutesystems.com> - is able to provide replacement parts for trash and linen chute doors that are both affordable and up to code.

(PRWEB) November 06, 2012 -- Most often, trash chute doors require replacement from time to time so that buildings may keep up with standard codes of safety. Without the proper maintenance, places of business and even homes can become a very serious threat for anyone staying there. Due to the fact that grime and sludge can build up in chutes, fire poses the most serious threat, whether it starts inside or outside. Proper upkeep of trash and linen chute doors is a big advantage in reducing potential fire hazards since wind also can quickly carry a fire through chutes that aren't properly seal-able.

American Chute Systems is now supplying trash chute door parts along with other maintenance products, including parts for linen/laundry chutes, in order to provide those measures of building maintenance and safety. These chute doors are made of stainless steel and can be set either bottom or side-hinged. They also come in a variety of sizes to fit any one preference along with being hand operated or self-closing.

Contacting American Chute Systems is quite easy. With quality customer service, they are able to give you first-hand assistance, quick and precise delivery, and also competitive pricing with quantity discounts.
