

Mina Novian

"my art celebrates the beautiful, innocent, and pure that exists somewhere within every human being"

The Persistence of Form

Reception: Thursday, November 29, 2012 6-8 pm

Exhibition Dates: November 27 - December 18, 2012

Divine Presence Oil on Canvas 24" x 24"

Mina Novian's color-saturated oil paintings exalt in the diversity and pure beauty of the natural landscape. She depicts clouded skies, forest hills and a single snowy lane with the same loving detail and a deep regard for the power of hue to extract the drama and romance from the earth. Novian's sensational contrasting of colors and lines work to personify the landscape, imbuing it with emotion and an almost-narrative that reminds the viewer of the possibility and history that a single place on the planet can contain. Working mainly with a palette knife, Novian is adept at capturing the intimacy of small scenes and the airy grandiosity of deep space.

Though she currently lives and works in Los Angeles, Mina Novian was born in Tehran, Iran and spent her childhood in Dumont, New Jersey, where she first explored her place in the world of art. Today the artist seeks to communicate the larger place of her fellow man. She explains, "My art celebrates the beautiful, innocent, and pure that exists somewhere within every human being."
