

TIAG Continues Global Expansion with Addition of Thomas, Head & Greisen in Alaska, Old Mill Accountants in Somerset, England and P.M. Accountant & Advisory in Thailand

St. Petersburg, FL (December 19, 2012) – The International Accounting Group (TIAG®) recently welcomed three new members to its growing alliance of independent accounting firms. With this significant addition of firms from Alaska, southwest England and Thailand, TIAG adds to its global reach while providing valuable relationships and resources to the new members, who include:

- Thomas, Head & Greisen, P.C. (Alaska, USA);
- Old Mill Accountants (Somerset, England); and
- P.M. Accountant & Advisory Co., Ltd. (Thailand).

For members both new and existing, TIAG’s international conferences are the catalyst to building valuable relationships with firms in other markets where their clients do business. TIAG’s benefits became readily apparent to Andrew Wholey, a Tax Consultant at Old Mill, who recently attended TIAG’s 19th International Conference in Brussels, Belgium. “This means that when we do need to pick up the phone to an adviser in another territory, we are happy to introduce our clients to the person we are speaking to because it is someone we know personally,” said Mr. Wholey.

TIAG considers a number of factors to determine a firm’s viability for membership. “These new firms bring experience in key industries such as oil and gas, and access to regions focused on exporting products and services globally,” said Bob Sattin, TIAG’s president. “It’s encouraging to see firms that are willing to ensure their clients’ needs are met through the expansion of their international capabilities. I speak for the entire membership when I say we are excited to add them to the TIAG alliance.”

Thomas, Head & Greisen, P.C.; Old Mill Accountants; P.M. Accountant & Advisory Co. and the more than 110 members of TIAG can be found by visiting www.TIAGnet.com/firms.
