The combatants for Super Bowl 2013 have arrived in the “Big Easy.” With less than a week to go before Super Bowl Sunday, both the NFC champion San Francisco 49ers and AFC champion Baltimore Ravens have touched down in New Orleans.

While the players and teams are continuing preparations for the biggest game of their lives, millions of Americans are putting the finishing touches on their Super Bowl Sunday 2013 parties. For those still looking for ways to make Super Bowl Sunday memorable, Printablebrackets.net is continuing to offer a number of Super Bowl party games.

“The countdown to kick-off and one of the biggest party days of the year is on,” said Printable Brackets spokesman Zaniel Worth. “We encourage those looking for something to add to their Super Bowl Sunday party to take advantage of the complimentary Super Bowl squares template and other contests available on our site.”

Super Bowl 2013 pits the Harbaugh brothers against each other, and Jim’s Niners are favored over John’s Ravens. Baltimore is an underdog despite beating Peyton Manning and Tom Brady – both on the road – in back-to-back weeks to reach the big game.

“The Ravens are a pretty surly bunch to begin with,” said Worth. “They don’t need any extra motivation, but I imagine being an underdog leaves them feeling pretty slighted.”

In addition to the Super Bowl Sunday games, Printable Brackets has unveiled an entire series of elimination brackets, including a 10 team double elimination bracket.

“Super Bowl Sunday 2013 is what’s on everyone’s mind right now,” said Worth.

“However, the conference basketball tournaments and March Madness are just around the corner, and the MLB season isn’t too far behind. We’re thrilled with the feedback we’ve received for the Super Bowl, but there are still plenty of big things on the horizon.”
