

WATER,

the way nature intended it to be

*Water,
Free from EDCs*

Water is not just a resource. It is a major constituent of the human body. In humans water is responsible for circulating blood, nutrients and other vital components that keep us healthy and alive. However, where water carries oxygen it also carries TOXINS and bacteria that can harm vital organs and disrupt bodily functions.

Are you aware that:

- Water is the carrier of pesticides and harmful rays
- Water carries Endocrine Disruptive Chemicals (EDCs) that can harm you?

The Alarming Increase in Endocrine Disruptive Chemicals

Dust, pollution, dirt and bacteria are problems of the past. Humans, with the help of wildlife, have now created immunity against all odds to survive the toughest of health concerns caused by these disruptive organisms.

The growing concern at present is the alarming presence of EDCs in the environment.

EDCs are like slow poison. They do not kill you immediately but are capable of altering genetics considerably. Water containing EDCs is threatening to the health and normal growth of children as well as pregnant women.

EDCs are either natural or synthetic substances that can disrupt the normal functioning of endocrine glands including the pituitary and the adrenal glands. These disruptions can considerably reduce fertility and metabolism in living beings.

The rising count of EDCs in the environment is a threat to growth, development and reproductive health of humans as well as the wildlife.

Evidence suggests that both wild life and human species are vulnerable to EDCs.

A water-cycle process that is innate to the rules of nature has no cure but a precaution

There is a growing concern over EDCs and how they can affect the health of living beings. The presence of EDCs in water treatment plants is another alarming fact. With water purifiers that promise freedom from such harmful chemicals we can ensure a healthier, happier world.
