Another month is just about in the books and warmer days promise to be ahead. The snow is certain to melt, spring is in the air and the month of March is on the horizon. As another calendar page turns, an online leader in complementary templates and spreadsheets has added an instantly downloadable and printable March 2013 calendar to its already vast inventory.

“March is likely to be a very busy month for people from all walks of life,” said MyExcelTemplates.com spokesperson Ben Davidson. “One of the goals of our site is to help people stay prepared and get organized, that’s why made the March calendar available.”

There are many notable dates to keep in mind in March. Sunday, March 10th will mark the start of Daylight Saving time. St. Patrick’s Day will be celebrated on Sunday, March 17th. Spring will officially begin on Wednesday, March 20th. The start of Passover is Tuesday, March 26th, while Easter Sunday will be on March 31st.

March is also a very busy month for sports fans. The World Baseball Classic will take place from March 2nd-19th. Spring training will continue throughout the month until the start of the MLB regular season on the 31st. The most popular of the month’s sporting events is undoubtedly “March Madness.” The 2013 NCAA men’s basketball tournament will run from March 19th-April 8th. The “Big Dance” is preceded by dozens of conference tournaments around the country.

“Not only is the calendar complimentary, it’s also completely customizable,” said Davidson. “With all that’s going on in March, we know people will need the freedom and flexibility that a customizable calendar provides.”

The March 2013 calendar is just one of hundreds of helpful tools made available by My Excel Templates, and Davidson says there are plenty more to come.
