

IM Target: Review Examining Anik Singal's Internet Marketing System Released

Summary: HonestyFirstReviews.com the premier internet marketing product review website releases a review of IM Target the latest system from self made millionaire marketer Anik Singal.

The release of Anik Singal's IM Target system has created a buzz of excitement throughout the online marketing community drawing an investigative review from HonestyFirstReviews.com's Tiffany Hendricks.

"Anik Singal has been a big name in the internet marketing world for many years, so when we were informed regarding the release of his new IM Target program we were eager to do a full review for our website visitors," reports Hendricks. "We are always extremely skeptical when it comes to highly automated internet marketing programs and are reluctant to give them any press, but based on Anik's reputation we decided to reserve judgment and give the program a chance to prove itself."

IM Target is rumored to be the last internet marketing education program publicly launched by Singal who has been an active internet marketer and teacher for several years. Prior to the release of IM Target Singal has reportedly collected over 50 Million Dollars in online commissions and has been honored by BussinessWeek Magazine and the Inc 500 for having one of the fastest growing education companies in the country.

Hendricks explains the nuts and bolts of the IM Target system:

"IM Target is a program for aspiring internet business owners looking to break in to the big leagues," says Hendricks. "The program combines comprehensive training with access to an automated online selling system that runs pretty much on autopilot. That said, the website creation software is probably the most exciting feature. It's ridiculously easy to use and it pumps out niche websites quickly. If properly implemented this system can be used to produce a full portfolio of affiliate websites,"

"After sign up members gain access to an online portal through which the can watch step-by-step tutorial videos and access the automated IM Target software," says Hendricks. "What's really winning folks over is just how newbie friendly this software is. It takes the guesswork out of niche and keyword selection, and can be used without any knowledge of HTML, SEO or anything like that. Anik understands what somebody who is just starting out needs in order to get going with their online business. As such, this program might be the ideal system for someone who isn't interested in developing a new set of complex technical skills."
