Values and Beliefs

Our Business:

We are Research Scientists. Our business is to go about discovering, analyzing and developing exciting and important new information, from every conceivable angle, for the purpose of enabling our clients to develop, promote and sell the programs, products and services that will put them on their shortest path to growth, health and prosperity.

Our Client Profile:

We have enjoyed working with: scientists, philosophers, futurists, psychics, pastors, teachers, aspiring politicians and holistic leaders of virtually all temperaments, styles and professions. Our criterion for choosing them as clients is that they want to grow; personally, professionally and financially: they place a high value on self-respect, they work hard for their money and they expect us to do the same.

Our Primary Beliefs:

We believe that all religions are born of fear of the unknown. We believe that if individuals will determine to avoid the influences of religious zealotry, they will eventually -- on their own and in their own right -- find that profoundly simple and all-powerful love that will sweep irresistibly through their soul, thereby neutralizing all of their fears and awakening them to the limitless affection of the all-powerful and infinite spiritual source and center of all that is.

Our Moral Obligations:

On a professional level, our interest in religion is strictly limited to those personal thoughts, values and belief systems that give us a deeper understanding of our clients future goals and aspirations. As far as the true value of religious principles is concerned; we expect all of our clients to possess the honesty and integrity that will enable them to pay their debts and assume their fair share of life's moral obligations.

Our Professional Thesis:

We find traditional college and graduate studies lacking the objectivity and specificity that is needed to resolve the difficulties that tend to beset today's leaders. We find the concise narrative of the Urantia Book to be difficult, but we have come to rely on its view, because it consistently offers us the better understandings of those historical, scientific, philosophical, psychological, theological and cosmological issues, that our valued clients need to be successful.

Our Primary Values:

We believe that true religion is the pursuit of values. We believe that all of the universes are filled with intelligent life similar to humans who -- on their better days -- are busy pursuing their aspirations to spiritually grow in the values of: wisdom, insight, order, loyalty, goodness, beauty and truth. Possessing these values, we believe, will enable us (and them) to spend an eternity working, learning, teaching, leading... and encouraging others to do the same.

Our Main Mission:

Our primary mission is to reveal and apply the ancient wisdom that guided mankind before they were reduced to over-indulging their baser and more self-centered animal natures. We want the modern world to begin applying those skills and disciplines that will enable them to defeat their chronic anxieties and diseases, accept their social and political liability for industrial greed and foster the disciplined confidence that will enable them to enjoy more success in life.
