IT Staffing Firm Optomi Expands Headquarters

Optomi's relocation lays the groundwork to employ over 100 nationally by the end of 2013

APRIL, 2013 • Roswell, Georgia | Optomi's expansion to a larger headquarters comes only five months after its launch. Beginning May 1, 2013, the company will be operating from its new site at 500 Colonial Center Parkway in Roswell. Optomi opened its doors in Alpharetta, GA and Naperville, IL with a team of Account Executives and Technical Recruiters and is now expanding on the back of successful initial growth. Optomi's investment in this larger space will give the company the ability to support a national network of offices and hire in excess of 50 employees in Roswell by the end of 2013.

Optomi CEO Michael Winwood explained, "This new space will enable us to drive the growth laid out in our plans for the next several years. We're building a company that is and will be known for quality and industry-leading philosophies. Every process we adopt for our business is geared towards high-efficiency with the goal of reducing time and costs for both our clients and consultants. The new Optomi facility will be equipped with technology that leads our industry and a progressive pod-style layout, promoting both teamwork and efficiency."

Led by co-founders Michael Winwood (formerly the President & COO of Technisource) and Todd Black (formerly the Senior Vice President of Technisource), Optomi has a presence in the Atlanta and Chicago markets and will be expanding to Dallas, TX later this summer.
