Heather Ordovery

began her professional life in Hollywood as a production assistant, became an award-winning high school teacher in NYC, then stayed home (often but not always) with her children to write curriculum. Now, oddly enough, she podcasts about knitting and literature on CraftLit and

Just the Books where she shares “audiobooks with benefits.” She teaches and speaks around the country while living in Northern Virginia with her amused husband, her goofball sons, a sly cat, and far too many mosquitoes. HOrdovery@mac.com
