

Dick DeCoit

In the more than thirty years since Dick DeCoit began his illustrious career in producing, writing and acting, he's become an established staple Los Angeles Film and Television.

Dick is a veteran of numerous network television soap operas, and has appeared as a regular on both Young and Restless and Days of Our Lives; along with a recurring role on Passions. Recent television appearances include the pilots for Redemption and Wanted.

Film credits include leading roles in the independent films The Orphan, Ditty Pictures nad The Lift [which received the Gold Award at the Worldfest in Houston, Texas].

Known for his local stage work, Dick appeared in the Los Angeles premier of Aaron Sorkin's masterpiece A Few Good Men, in which his performance as Colonel Jessep found critics in unanimous praise of his acting talents. Other noteworthy stage roles include the Critic's Choice production of Dealer's Choice by Patrick Marber and the lead in the West Coast Premier of Horton Foote's Young Man from Atlanta. He received one of the last DramaLogue Awards for his performance in The Cave.

Along with writing partner Brian Gross, Dick recently produced the web-based series Desire and Deceit, which was voted one of the top 15 Soap Opera's on the web by the Indie Awards.
