

NEW ROCKLER TABLE HOUSES CNC SYSTEMS

CNC Table Keeps CNC Machines and Controllers Together and Ready to Use

MEDINA, MN (May 22, 2013) - Rockler Woodworking and Hardware has introduced the CNC Table, sized to fit any CNC Shark machine and controller as well as most other consumer CNC systems. CNC users can now have a dedicated, self-contained workstation at just the right height for operation and adjustment, with the controller box stored in a bracket attached to the underside of the table. The setup is a convenient alternative to storing the equipment on the floor or sacrificing valuable benchtop space. Since the CNC Table is sized precisely to fit a CNC machine, it is also a permanent storage solution when the CNC is not in use.

"The CNC Table makes the whole CNC system easily accessible for quick adjustments and also to store it when not in use," says Scott Ekman, Vice President of the Marketing Department. "With the CNC machine on the top and the controller snug in the bracket beneath, it is essentially mission control for your CNC routing system."

The CNC Table is made of white melamine coated MDF and is 40" long, 28" wide, and 1<sup>1</sup>/<sub>8</sub>" thick with 3mm black edge banding all the way around. The included controller bracket attaches to the underside of the table and features 11<sup>3</sup>/<sub>4</sub>" inside width and 5<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub>" inside height, with the depth adjustable to fit each specific controller box. Each CNC Table includes a 36" long x 24" wide x 32" high steel stand to elevate and position the CNC machine for easy access, operation, and adjustment. The stand components are pre-drilled and include all mounting hardware for installation.

The CNC Table (47740) retails for $249.99 and can be purchased at Rockler Woodworking and Hardware stores nationwide, Rockler independent resellers, Rockler.com, or from the Rockler catalog.
