Instabuild has announced it's revolutionary custom website platform that redefines the speed at which beautiful, custom websites can be delivered to customers—literally making them the fastest custom website company in the industry. The Instabuild platform adds the essential features that all small business owners need at a fraction of the cost of a traditional "custom" website. Furthermore, business owners have full access to the platform after the website has been created in order to easily edit, manage and further customize their website at any time, from any place.

"As a team, our collective experience in the custom website industry is vast and comprehensive, so when we put our heads together we realized there was an epidemic in the industry. This references the ocean of poorly designed websites from providers that overpromise and underdeliver. From what we see, the only way for a small business owner to truly get a beautiful and functional website is to spend thousands of dollars and invest months of their time on custom development and design, or, roll up their sleeves and try their hands at one of the many DIY website builders out there," remarks Sarah Zimmerman, Co-Founder and Chief Creative Officer of Instabuild. "The reality is, these small business owners don't need websites with all the extra bells and whistles, they need something quick, easy and uncomplicated that works. It's that simple. Instabuild is our remedy to this epidemic. We believe good design should never be compromised. Every person deserves access to beautiful and functional websites—and that's just what we aim to do."

Furthermore, the team at Instabuild reminds us that "good design" is much more than visual appeal, it is also how something works. Instabuild's promise for instant custom websites stems from the incredible platform used to build it, a platform with a mission of it's own.

"Instabuild was built entirely on an internally developed platform we call 'Without Code.' It is a socket-based, asynchronous platform, allowing for real-time editing and faster load speeds. The goal of the platform is to streamline custom web design and development processes while eliminating any need to touch code. We have automated several steps in the process in order to fulfill our promise at being the fastest in the industry," adds Daniel Wallace, Co-Founder and Chief Technology Officer, "but this does not mean we have sacrificed quality for speed. Every single line of code and each individual pixel is purposeful, and most importantly, functional."

"Our team has developed a remarkable tool that is perfect for a business owner looking for a clean, fresh, upgraded look with added functionality," notes Randy Rouse, Co-Founder and President. "One of the top comments from our clients is they are thrilled with how quickly our customer service responds to any requests or site alterations they might have, but they also enjoy the fact they can make changes to their site, on their own and on the spot."

Instabuild offers separate hosting and maintenance plans starting at the affordable price of $15 per month, with an array of add-ons, SEO services, and many other options to truly get the most out of a website.
