Morrisville, NC -The Residence Inn Raleigh-Durham Airport has undergone a complete renovation of its 120 suites and public spaces, transforming it into an upscale hotel designed to enhance the comfort and lifestyle of travelers on the road today.

The newly refreshed hotel in Morrisville offers guests flexible spaces and amenities to help maintain a healthy balance and routine while traveling.

“When on the road for an extended period, our guests need space to spread out, to maintain their life’s pace and restore their energy,” said Diane Mayer, vice president and global brand manager of Residence

Inn. “Residence Inn offers a seamless blend of modern style and functionality that allows them to settle in and thrive.”

The spacious, residential-style studio, one- and two-bedroom suites at the RDU airport hotel offer accommodations that are larger than traditional guest rooms. The spacious layout provides separate zones where visitors can relax, work, eat and sleep, thereby maintaining their routines while away from home. With complimentary wireless high-speed Internet access and easily accessible outlets, guests are able to work efficiently throughout the suite. Luxurious bathrooms with extra storage space and 32-inch flat-screen televisions make it possible for travelers to live and rest comfortably.

Conveying the same feeling of comfortable living on the road, the Morrisville, NC, hotel's re-designed public spaces have been transformed into multi-functional living spaces where guests can relax or collaborate on their terms. The new open communal living space with complimentary wireless Internet access allows visitors to connect with friends, family or colleagues in a modern living room-style lounge and outdoor open-air living room.
