MELBOURNE FALLS

Melbourne. The last standing city of Australia, has fallen to complete ruins. After extensive civilian and rebel backlash, the remaining political powers of Victoria's Capital have now been dissolved. Parliament House, Melbourne Town Hall and the Old Flinders St Station, referred to as 'The Last Triad', have all been looted and disbanded.

This marks a civilian triumph and the end of the Last Government's attempts to control a country which it helped destroy. Much of the water-table has become contaminated as a result of extensive fracking and mining, and fresh water has now become a precious and sought after commodity. Monsanto's super crops were no match for nature, when the now coined "God's Plague" wiped out all singular strands of produce.

This week's activity has shown the effects of a huge shift in allegiance and faith towards Rebel Factions, abandoned housing and farm projects, and self survival. It was in this week that the people took to the city as one, to make their position clear, and reclaim Old Melbourne. The government has failed its people, and is no more. Rumours and fears of New World Government intervention still remain, but for now we must band together, to ensure our survival in the world beyond.
