7Summits and Box Deliver Cloud Content Management and Social Business Software to the Enterprise

MILWAUKEE (June 27, 2013) – Leading social business agency 7Summits today announced a new partnership with Box that will strengthen enterprise collaboration through easier content management. By ensuring that users can easily store, access and edit content across platforms, the offering will help businesses improve real-time decision-making, boost productivity and enhance team collaboration.

Built to improve collaboration in the enterprise, Box has helped more than 15 million users from small businesses to Fortune 500 companies securely share, organize and collaborate on their content in the cloud from any mobile device. Similarly, 7Summits has brought over 50 online community experiences to life for its growing base of Fortune 500 clients, helping them engage customers, partners and employees to transform their business.

Box will complement 7Summits' new solution model, which is focused on five key areas: social business management, social marketing and outreach, external customer-centric communities, internal customer-centric communities and socially enabled business processes. 7Summits' integrated solutions, coupled with Box's content management, allow for a seamless connection to CRM or ERP systems, as well as collaboration systems like Jive. As a recognized partner of the year by Jive, 7Summits will utilize the team's experience to leverage Box for Jive and Jive's Spring cloud release.

"With Box, we can better serve our clients with a comprehensive social business and enterprise content management architecture. The ease of use and security provided by our relationship is especially relevant for our Fortune and healthcare clients," said Rob Murray, Senior Vice President at 7Summits. "We're constantly evolving our technology integration capabilities to drive measurable business value and help clients become socially enabled enterprises. Our partnership with Box is another way in which 7Summits is expanding the horizons of social business."
