

Richard La Ruina's Stealth Attraction that promises to offer men a game plan to find out how they can start hooking up with women they never thought they'd have any chance with has caught the attention of <http://GentlemensUniversity.com>'s Stan Stevenson, prompting an investigative review.

"Stealth Attraction is primarily an online video course that you can access within minutes of processing your purchase of the program. Once you get access, you can start learning the step-by-step methods for attracting any woman you want and get them ready to sleep within minutes of meeting you," reports Stevenson. "The video course itself can be completed in about 3 hours at home, which means you can start applying them on any girl you want just hours after purchasing the program."

An online video course, Stealth Attraction is also available as Quick Start Guides in PDF format that work as handy pieces of references that people can download to their PC, laptop, or smartphone and look up quickly whenever they need a bit of a refresher. Users also receive the bonus access to Richard's four other bestselling programs that can help them have women approach them rather than the other way around by learning the same kind of attitude that alpha males have, so they can adopt it, and much more. Each of these bonuses is being included at no extra cost.

"Our Stealth Attraction review shows it also has a rejection proof approach to attracting women and getting them to sleep with you. Unlike other programs that tell you that rejection is normal, Richard outlines a step-by-step approach that allows you to gauge a woman's interest level in sleeping with you and help you decide if you should push further, slow down or try again another day," says Stevenson. "There is also the Stealth Attraction Quick Start Guides in PDF format. If you don't have a lot of time to finish the videos, you can go right ahead to the Quick Start PDF guides and get the course in a more streamlined form. That way, you can get the core ideas immediately."

"There are a lot of video courses that are nothing more than glorified PowerPoint presentations with voice overs. Stealth Attraction's online video courses are thankfully not done in that style and what I like is that it is Richard La Ruina himself who teaches and demonstrates his techniques to you with the help of real female assistants. This might not seem like a big deal, but it's cool because you get to better visualize how and when to use these techniques and can use this later on once you start putting them to action. Not a lot of guys like being rejected, and I think this approach is invaluable and it's done so subtly that women don't notice this kind of probing at all. Richard La Ruina just gets what most guys would want from a PUA product. You can literally be applying his techniques in just hours after watching the videos."

Those wishing to purchase Stealth Attraction, or for more information, click here.

To access a comprehensive Stealth Attraction review, visit <http://gentlemensuniversity.com/stealth-attraction-review>