

eToro, an online Forex trading platforms that claims to offer various advantages, such as Guardian Angel, which promotes responsible trading and Openbook, which allows users to copy the trades experts make has caught the attention of ForexVestor.com's Stan Stevenson, prompting an investigative review.

"Our eToro review shows it is a fully integrated solution and investors can manage everything through the same interface manages. It acts as a broker, so there no need to sign up with a different broker. Traders can also virtually trade from anywhere without being hampered by a lack of computer hardware," reports Stevenson. "There are three different platforms to make sure everyone is able to trade as and when they see fit. The first is the WebTrader, second the OpenBook, and third is the Mobile Trading Platform. There are integrated risk and money management features and users can trade on currencies, major indices, and commodities such as oil, gold, and silver."

eToro supports trading in real time and offers new traders a free and fully functional demo account to practice. Users can start trading for as little as $50 (low minimum deposit) and use Social Networking to enhance the learning curve. The spreads are low; 2 pips for the major currencies and there is a high Leverage of 400:1. eToro also has a fantastic help section known as "eToroPedia", which is very concise and well formulated. With the eToro Mobile Trading App, traders can now stay connected with their investments on their android powered smartphones, iPhones, or tablets whether it is through the Webtrader or OpenBook network.

"eToro's OpenBook allows you to see what other traders are doing in real time. There is an option to follow (or copy) other traders and it enabled us to see what strategies were being successful and which ones weren't, thereby developing our very own strategies," says Stevenson. "Using the trading app, we were able to keep up to date with our traders on the go. Not only has eToro's sleek and clean platform received acclaim for its social networking and trader communication features, but it has also been able to attract a considerable number of active users to its innovative trading platform."

"eToro has everything you could want from an online Forex site. Quick and easy registration, an easy to use interface, the innovative platform, and the awesome support make it by far the best Forex broker at the moment. You will find features here that are missing from the competition. There is no information overload and we were particularly impressed with the chat function, which allowed us to speak with other traders Forex traders who want to learn from more advanced investing experts or anyone who genuinely enjoys the ins-and-outs of both social networking and the investing process can benefit a lot from both by going with eToro."
