FrontStream's NonProfit Division Supports Relief Efforts for Victims of Typhoon

Mobilizing to alleviate the effects of devastating storm.

Reston, VA – November 14, 2013 – In the aftermath of one of the strongest recorded storms to ever make landfall, relief efforts have already begun to aid survivors of the typhoon that swept through the Philippines on November 8. As military units and international aid organizations are mobilizing resources to provide support to the areas hardest hit, FrontStream is working diligently to find ways to support recovery and relief efforts.

Nina Vellayan, CEO and President of FrontStream, said in an official statement, "Hearing the stories of loss experienced by those impacted by this storm is truly heartbreaking. We are here to support those that are spearheading recovery efforts on the ground and will continue to work to get donations to the aid organizations that need them most."

We want to do our part in providing resources to those that most need them by supporting the various nonprofit organizations who are lending a helping hand. To donate directly to a nonprofit that is assisting in the relief efforts, visit our Disaster Relief page at <http://www.frontstreampayments.com/DisasterRelief.aspx>.

All donations are processed by FirstGiving, a wholly owned subsidiary of FrontStream Payments and a trusted name with more than a decade of experience in working with nonprofits.
