OnRamp Names Jack D'Angelo Vice President of Finance and Corporate Development

AUSTIN, TX – OnRamp, a leading data center operations company with facilities in Texas and North Carolina, announced today that Jack D'Angelo has been named Vice President of Finance and Corporate Development. In this role, D'Angelo will oversee the company's financial accounting and reporting, its relationships with providers of outside capital, and its M&A efforts within the data center services industry.

Prior to joining OnRamp, D'Angelo held positions at Millennium Partners, a global, multi-strategy hedge fund, and Citigroup. During his tenure at Millennium Partners, D'Angelo was a member of a five person team managing a $500M portfolio. At Citigroup, D'Angelo was a top-rated analyst in the Power & Utilities industry coverage group.

"We are excited for Jack to join our management team," stated OnRamp President Ryan Robinson. "He has a proven track record in effectively managing strategic projects in finance and corporate development. At OnRamp, Jack's experience will help further scale our business to support the growing demand for OnRamp's data center services," said Robinson.

Over the past year, OnRamp has announced several expansion projects. In Q1 of this year, OnRamp began construction on a second data center facility in Austin. The 42,000 square-foot data center will be the company's third facility in the US. In addition, OnRamp announced the opening of its data center in the heart of Research Triangle Park in Raleigh, NC in February of this year. And, in Q3 of 2012, OnRamp completed a multi-million dollar expansion of its Austin I data center for colocation, managed cloud and high security hosting and disaster recovery customers.
