

The Career Center Partners with MasterStreet on Computer Skills Training Classes in New York City

MasterStreet customers can now discover and register for conveniently-located Career Center training classes on Adobe, Google, and Microsoft technologies, and other computer-related skills and topics.

NEW YORK, NY - December 17, 2013 - MasterStreet (www.masterstreet.com) and The Career Center (www.careercenters.com) are proud to announce a new partnership that makes The Career Center's computer and software training classes available to professionals through MasterStreet's free search engine and booking platform for technology, business, and design classes, programs, and conferences.

Since 1988, The Career Center has offered hands-on, instructor-led training that helps professionals of all skill levels, from beginners to advanced users, increase their computer knowledge & efficiency. The Career Center regularly offers over 100 public courses in popular skills and topics including, Microsoft Excel, Word, and Powerpoint, AutoCAD, Adobe Photoshop, SQL, HTML5, and more. The Career Center is conveniently located on the corner of 34th Street & Madison Avenue. Also, private and on-site training provided by The Career Center can be requested through MasterStreet's website.

"At The Career Center, our quality instructors, informative curricula, and efficient administrative staff enable us to offer high quality training for large numbers of students at a budget-stretching price," noted Jacques Rebibo at The Career Center. "Our partnership with MasterStreet helps us introduce our classes and training to the next generation of companies and professionals doing business in New York City."

"We are excited to partner with The Career Center, an established New York training organization that combines over 25 years of instructional experience with a commitment to continually improving their highly relevant skill-based classes," said MasterStreet CEO Thomas Lehrman. "Their software and computer classes offer a convenient and cost-effective professional development option for New York professionals of any skill level."

The following classes in New York City, taught by The Career Center's experienced instructors, are among the 5000+ programs currently available on MasterStreet:

- HTML5
- Customer Service Via Phone and Email
- Microsoft Excel
- Advanced Business Writing
- AutoCAD 2013

Press Contacts

Thomas Lehrman, CEO
Stephen Schmalhofer, VP of Business Development service@masterstreet.com
(866) 212-1501

About The Career Center

The Career Center has been advancing computer skills in the heart of New York City since 1988, with more than 100 Dual Core computers, spacious classrooms, private tutoring stations, and a friendly, professional staff. All of our classrooms have full internet and networking accessibility, climate-control, special lighting options for best projection quality, ample space at every workstation and an in-house technician during class hours. For more information, visit <http://www.careercenters.com>

About MasterStreet

MasterStreet is a free search engine and booking platform for business, technology, and design classes, programs, and conferences. MasterStreet's search engine contains more than 5000+ classes, programs, and conferences from top educational institutions that address key skill needs in Engineering, IT, Design, Marketing, Strategy, Finance, Operations, and more. MasterStreet partners with leading educational institutions, helping them reach leading entrepreneurs, executives, and their teams while providing useful data and analytics to drive better outcomes. For more information visit <http://www.masterstreet.com>.