eventegg

02 January 2014

Eventegg.com, your ultimate event assistant is online

Eventegg.com, has been launched on December 1, 2013 to meet all the requirements of academic and business event attendees.

Eventegg.com is a website with a rich database that lists any kind of business and academic events from all around the world. A rich search engine is integrated in which thousands of congresses, conferences, symposiums, fairs & exhibitions, trade shows and they are incessantly updated. An advanced search tool that enables filtering is also available to help users find the events in their fields of interests.

In addition, as a partner of the most trusted booking engines online, listing the best available accommodation options around the venue and on the event's date is one of the amenities provided. Moreover, a detailed travel guide for the host cities and countries, as well with a frequently updated blog are offered to the users.

"Having more than 15 years of experience in business event sector, we know how tight the business people's schedule is and how time consuming an event search can be for them. Finding an academic or business event and planning a travel may be really hard due to lack of online sources and an event attendee is more likely to do it online. You may find millions of travel sites but none of them is actually specialized for event attendees.

Therefore, Eventegg will implement specialized solutions and applications, designed for event attendees to make their business travel easier and enjoyable more than ever. "

Says Alpaslan Kılıçaslan, the CEO of the company.

For further information, you can contact with:

Tezcan Varol - Project Coordinator

tezcan@eventegg.com