

Mindcrest wins India Business Law Journal's Best Overall LPO Award for 5th Consecutive Year

Mindcrest, a pioneer and leader in legal services outsourcing, announced today that it has received India Business Law Journal's Best Overall LPO Award for 2013. This award recognizes the transformational nature of legal services and business solutions that Mindcrest consistently provides to its clients using high-caliber, globally integrated and experienced teams in a manner that is redefining the growth of outsourced legal services industry.

"India Business Law Journal is honored to recognize Mindcrest as a Best Overall LPO in its LPO Awards 2013. Mindcrest has received this award for five years running and we congratulate it for this creditable achievement," said James Burden, Publisher of India Business Law Journal.

"We have a reputation for providing highest quality work and exceptional client service. As a learning organization committed to sourcing, training and developing the best and brightest talent across our global delivery centers, we are known for our commitment to operational excellence, innovation and for bringing sustained transformational change to our clients' businesses. We are pleased that India Business Law Journal has recognized us as the Best Overall LPO for the fifth successive year," said Ganesh Natarajan, Mindcrest's CEO.

India Business Law Journal's annual LPO Awards are based on an extensive survey of in-house counsel at major international corporations and partners at regional and international law firms. In determining the winners for each category, the survey results were considered carefully by India Business Law Journal's editorial team in along with other factors such as client references and notable achievements for each LPO over the past year.

"Large corporations and law firms have embraced legal services outsourcing like never before. Our global yet local approach to creating and delivering customized legal and business solutions allows our clients to leverage the scale, efficiencies and economics of a truly integrated global LPO delivery model. The number of long-term client partnerships we added to our portfolio in 2013 reinforces the Mindcrest brand and its continuing dominance as the most trusted LPO partner to corporations and law firms worldwide, which this award signifies," added Shantala Sadananda, President.

"Mindcrest has been instrumental in paving a highly successful career path for talented lawyers in India. The skills, global exposure and career growth experienced in this industry continues to attract motivated legal professionals across the country. Receiving the Best Overall LPO Award for five years in a row validates the substantial investment we have made in training and people development," said Rohan Dalal, Managing Director, India.
