Free Extensions Come Standard with Telzio Business Phone Systems

Telzio includes unlimited extensions on all phone numbers, allowing small businesses to save dramatically on the cost of paying for additional users.

Los Angeles, California, USA – February 13, 2014 – Telzio announces extreme cost savings on business phone systems by offering unlimited users to all customers. Plans start at $1 per month and include a standard or toll free number, unlimited extensions, and a full-featured business phone system. Customers can sign up with new or existing phone numbers and create an unlimited number of users and extensions with each number. All features are included, so with every phone number customers can design phone menus, record greetings, forward calls, create conference bridges, and manage it all through an easy-to-use online dashboard.

Unlike most VoIP providers who charge extra for additional features and users, Telzio provides all features and unlimited users with every plan, so small businesses save dramatically on the cost of paying for extensions for every employee. Instead, Telzio allows customers to create an unlimited number of users and extensions with each phone number for one fixed monthly rate, and all minutes between users are shared under that plan. If another phone number is needed, customers can get another plan with a local or toll free number starting at $1 per month.

To see how much businesses can save, Telzio has a no hassle Cost Analyzer tool that calculates exactly how much you would spend and save based on your phone numbers and usage.

Telzio provides virtual business phone systems to small businesses all over the world. Designed with the modern mobile worker in mind, Telzio can be used to forward calls to any mobile device or IP phone, filter calls through a menu or opening hours, make conference calls, and route calls anywhere in the world at local rates.

Telzio currently provides phone numbers from 51 countries so international businesses can get local numbers in multiple countries and route the calls to any office. Businesses with remote workers can get a local or toll free number and forward calls to any device in the world, and workers can make calls through their Telzio phone number through an IP phone or smartphone app.
