1800Accountant Announces New Partnership with Volusion

Two industry leaders team up to provide seamless integration for entrepreneurs and small-business owners for all their tax and accounting needs.

NEW YORK, N.Y. [March 17, 2014] – 1800Accountant, the nation's leading tax and accounting firm, today announced a new business partnership with Volusion, a leading provider of e-commerce solutions for small-business.

Founded in 1999, Volusion offers innovative e-commerce and online shopping cart software solutions to businesses of all sizes that sell products or services online. The global firm also offers web design, marketing, search engine optimization (SEO), and order management support.

"We are very excited to bring our entrepreneur-centric tax and accounting services to the thousands of businesses using Volusion's simple, powerful, and affordable e-commerce system. When you start selling online, the tax and bookkeeping issues are numerous, complicated, and time-consuming. Our goal is to simplify things by providing a comprehensive solution that frees the business owner to focus their time on running the business, while our professionals handle all the tax and accounting work for a fraction of the cost of a local CPA," said Brendon Pack, Vice President of Sales for 1800Accountant.

Small-business owners need access to the complimentary products and services that both of these companies provide to help achieve their desired success. Integrating these services will provide business owners a seamless client experience, freeing time to spend on marketing and revenue growth.

"These days the first impression most customers have of your business is your website and overall e-commerce presence, so it is essential to get it right to win over new clients. Our goal is to empower business owners to focus on revenue generation which is why we are so excited to partner with 1800Accountant. They share our passion to make life easier for entrepreneurs. Their services will not only save business owners money but also time – allowing them to really focus on growing their business," said Neil Patel Director of Business Development and Merchant Services at Volusion.
