

Your restaurant: Connected like never before

Introducing Flow: it's an enterprise social networking tool designed specifically for restaurants. It allows employees to share ideas, comments and files in real-time, from most any desktop, tablet or smartphone.

Flow is a free application, hosted on WhenToManage's Peach platform. It is completely private and intended to encourage dynamic communication and collaboration in your restaurant.

The app works on any size or type of device. Users can create profiles, post messages, reply to threads, share files and remain up-to-date on conversations relevant to their jobs. Not only can your employees post, comment and like messages, you can reach all of them with one click.

We'd love for you to try it out!

Flow is built using WhenToManage's new Peach restaurant software platform.

Start up a company-wide conversation!

Flow is Collaborative and Creative

Communication is one of the biggest challenges you face in your restaurant. You all work together but does the front of house really communicate with the back of house? And then there's the fact that with all the different shifts, you might have employees that never see each other. How often do you get everyone together?

Flow is the social media solution that will bring your team together to collaborate and create.

How does communication like this happen for you today?

- Amy did the Heimlich on a guy last night and saved his life!
- We're changing our prime rib supplier. Be sure to ask people what they think of it.
- I ordered a new waste basket for the back bus station but it won't arrive until Thursday. In the meantime, be gentle with the one that's there. It has to last!
- A big welcome to Alex! He's our new bartender. He last worked at the MGM in Vegas. He has 9 years of experience, is getting married in June and has a pet boa constrictor.
- Got a call from the Mayor's office. They're all coming in for lunch tomorrow. It's going to pack us out so be ready!

Flow's private social network makes this easy.

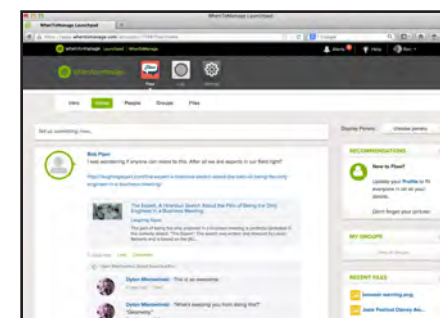

Similar to the social media websites that your employees are already using, Flow lets users post, like and comment on all sorts of conversations. Best of all, it's all yours. It's completely private and you control who uses it, and how they use it.

And did we mention that it's free. Yup. Completely, totally, no strings attached, forever – free.

We're giving you Flow as a way to introduce you to our new Peach platform. Peach is the most revolutionary bit of technology to come to restaurants in years. It will revolutionize communication in your restaurant. Give it a try!

Access Flow at:
Store.WhenToManage.com

The Flow interface may look familiar but it's different because it's private. Only you and your employees can access it.

You use Flow just like other social media websites. You write posts, comment and like. You can even attach files and links.
