

Siege Sports Tri-Lakes Shootouts

Custom athletic apparel company partners with Midwestern basketball team camp

KANSAS CITY, May 20, 2014 — Siege Sports, LLC, a custom athletic uniform company based in Kansas City, announced today that it has become the title sponsor of the Tri-Lakes Shootouts, which is now the Siege Sports Tri-Lakes Shootout, a high school men's and women's basketball team camp with 20 different sites across the state of Missouri. Siege Sports, LLC is a custom athletic uniform company focusing on superior custom products for high school and college teams.

"I am a big fan of Siege Sports and the quality of their basketball uniforms and practice gear. This was a no brainer when the opportunity presented itself," said Todd Mercer, director of the Tri-Lakes Shootout. "Chris Barnes and his staff are top notch. The Tri-Lakes Shootout is very excited to be partnering with Siege Sports."

"Todd has a great reputation of promoting high school basketball and creating an environment that allow men's and woman's basketball teams from around the Midwest to compete with one another," said Chris Barnes, President of Siege Sports. "Tri-Lakes is a rapidly expanding organization that Siege Sports is excited to be a partner with."

About Tri-Lakes

Tri Lakes Shootouts started in the summer of 2000 at Reeds Spring High School with 13 basketball teams. Over the past 15 years the Shootouts have grown to 20 different sites across the state of Missouri with over 700 high school teams participating. The Tri Lakes Shootouts are for high school and middle school teams, boys and girls.

Todd Mercer, Head Varsity Boys Basketball Coach at Harrisonville High School, started the Shootouts 15 years ago while he coached at Reeds Spring High School. Coach Mercer's teams at Harrisonville have won 3 district and 3 conference Championships in the last five years. Coach Mercer is also the Director of the D1 Experience Skills Camps, of which he is business partners with Alan Stein and Drew Hanlen, please visit www.trilakesshootout.com.
