Center to Meet High Consumer Demand for a Trading and Investing Education*

IRVINE, CA - (June 26, 2014) – Online Trading Academy celebrated their headquarters’ grand re-opening with the City of Irvine Mayor, Steven Choi. The global trading education center hosted a ribbon cutting with the mayor, members of the City Council, as well as member from the Irvine Chamber of Commerce. The new education center is located at 17780 Fitch, Suite 200, Irvine, CA 92614.

“As an educator and businessman, I was honored to attend and perform the ribbon at Online Trading Academy; a company that merges education, technology, and finance.” said City of Irvine Mayor Steven Choi, “Companies like Online Trading Academy contribute to the economic growth in the city of Irvine by creating jobs and educating individuals how to make informed investment decisions in the financial markets.”

The new headquarters is a testament to the support needed for the growing demand of -financial education across the globe. Over 100 attended the grand re-opening celebration where Mayor Choi discussed how Online Trading Academy contributes to the growth of the city’s economy and how they merge three key industries for the city: education, finance, and technology. Online Trading Academy founder and president Eyal Shahar also spoke at the grand re-opening.

“Today we are a global network of investing and trading education centers, with our headquarters located here, in Irvine, California,” said Shahar. “Our new location and facility not only meets the growing demand of a financial education in the Orange County area but also the demands and needs of our 30 plus global education centers.”
