Jennifer Jackson Joins Iris Data Services as Director of National Accounts

Leader in eDiscovery Managed Services Grows its Dream Team

Kansas City, February 16, 2015 – Jennifer Jackson has joined Iris Data Services, the leader in eDiscovery managed services, as the new director of national accounts. Jennifer, a seasoned eDiscovery professional with 17 years of experience, has worked with numerous Fortune 500 companies and carries a proven track record of establishing litigation cost savings for her clients. Even before she had the ability to deliver managed services, Jennifer was still able to save her clients an average of 28% on their eDiscovery costs.

“The corporate demand for managed services is off the charts,” said Damon Goduto, co-founder and vice president of sales at Iris. “We have had more and more corporations coming to us for managed services. Jennifer will help us cater to that demand.”

“With every hire, it is getting even more fun to work at Iris,” said Adi Elliott, Iris’ vice president of marketing. “With so many smart people on board, you feel motivated to bring your ‘A game’ every day. Jennifer definitely had her share of choices, so it’s really cool that she chose Iris.”

“It’s exciting to join such a phenomenal company,” said Jennifer. “Iris created a business model that is disruptive to the traditional eDiscovery market. They put their customers first, and that is what makes them so successful. I am thrilled to be a part of that.”

Jennifer’s responsibilities as the director of national accounts for Iris will be focused on working with corporations to reduce their eDiscovery spending and make it much more predictable via managed services. Jennifer will also work with corporations to develop managed services plans that meet their specific needs.

Jennifer began her career in 1998 at IKON where she earned several awards, including Employee of the Year, Managing Partner of the Year, and National Accounts Consultant of the Year. Most recently, she served as the vice president of corporate services at Veritext Legal Solutions in New Jersey, where she led the company’s corporate legal accounts program. Jennifer currently serves on the Board of Directors for The Atlanta Volunteer Lawyers Foundation, on the board of Foundations International Ministries serving in Africa and India, and on the Board of Overseers for her alma mater, Samford University.
