ACH Security Framework Training will be InfoSight's Focus at EastPay's Information Interchange 2015 Conference

InfoSight will address the concern of financial institutions regarding the ACH Security Framework which establishes minimum data security obligations for ACH Network participants to protect ACH data within their control.

MIAMI, FL (February 2015) InfoSight Inc. – InfoSight Inc., provider of cyber security, regulatory compliance services, risk management and infrastructure solutions for regulated industries, will address ACH Security Framework Training for financial institutions at EastPay's Information Interchange 2015 Conference on February 24th in Orlando, FL. EastPay, a Regional Payments Association member of NACHA, is a trade association that provides payments expertise to financial institutions and businesses through education, compliance support and risk management.

InfoSight's ACH Security Framework Training Solution simplifies and ensures ACH compliance obligations. The comprehensive solution contains a training course for both Originators/Third Party Senders and Originating Depository Financial Institutions (ODFIs). It also includes an ACH checklist for Originators, a self-assessment for ODFIs and an ACH activity status report for boards of directors.

"The 2015 conference is about setting the stage for ePayments success", said Tom Garcia, CEO of InfoSight Inc. "We believe it's critical that employees of financial institutions have a clear understanding of the ACH Security Framework Update. This is pivotal when it comes to protecting the security and integrity of ACH data."

Areas of focus for the conference, which is co-sponsored by the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, are reflected in the session tracks: Operations and Technology, Risk and Compliance, and Treasury Management. Attendees will increase their critical understanding of electronic payment applications, their real-world use, the inherent risks and the unique benefits. Informal networking opportunities with peers, industry expert speakers and exhibiting solution providers enrich the educational experience.
