ZOOMCARE ANNOUNCES 28 LOCATION
ON-DEMAND NEIGHBORHOOD HEALTH CAMPUS
Offering Primary Through Specialist Care All On-demand.

(Portland, OR). ZoomCare announced today the next phase of its plan to remake American healthcare. Zoom will expand its Portland on-demand neighborhood health campus to include 28 neighborhood clinics and advanced care studios delivering urgent care, primary care, advanced self-care, pediatrics, mental health, emergency services, specialty care and outpatient surgery. With its new neighborhood campus, Zoom will provide on-demand access to almost all healthcare needs outside of hospitalization.

“2015 is the year we bring our vision to reality. We’re building a modern on-demand neighborhood health campus from the ground up with people at the center,” said Dave Sanders, MD, Zoom’s Co-founder and CEO. “We started with our on-demand neighborhood store fronts. Now we’re adding complete on-demand care from supercharged self-care and primary care, to emergency, specialists and surgery. Delivering more complete on-demand care will enable us to deliver on our promise of twice/half/ten: twice the health, half the price, ten times the delight.”

“Our on-demand neighborhood clinics changed the doctor’s visit forever,” stated Steve McCallion, ZoomCare Chief Member Officer and Creative Director. “Now we’re giving people radical access and control of their preventive and advanced care. With our new on-demand neighborhood health campus, Zoom is changing the industry and creating new care and economic models for healthcare.”

ZoomCare is building the world’s first neighborhood and mobile healthcare platform. These nine new neighborhood locations are added to the current 19 neighborhood healthcare clinics in Portland, linked by the ZoomCare engineered technology platform that seamlessly connects its members and providers.
