

Denovo Expands Cloud Offerings through iTINUUM Acquisition

Boulder, CO and Seattle, WA. July 6, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Denovo, a leading provider of enterprise cloud hosting, consulting, outsourcing and managed services, today announced that it acquired iTINUUM, a leading disaster recovery firm located in Seattle, WA. iTINUUM delivers proven solutions in infrastructure, cloud, application high availability, disaster recovery and project management services to very well recognized large enterprise customers. The terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

Marty Snella, Denovo's CEO, stated, "iTINUUM adds to our long term vision of building a national service firm providing enterprises a full suite of cloud products and services for our existing and new enterprise customers in private, hybrid and public cloud platforms. Richard Dolewski, Managing Partner, iTINUUM, is considered an industry expert in Disaster Recovery and Cloud Infrastructure. We are pleased that Richard will join our senior leadership team, and assume the role of Chief Technology Officer, Cloud Infrastructure. We are also very excited to have Kjell Hanson, iTINUUM Managing Partner, join Denovo as Chief Architect, Cloud Infrastructure."

With technology playing an active role in achieving enterprises' high availability and disaster recovery objectives, iTINUUM's solutions have demonstrated unique, dynamic and resilient approaches to infrastructure management. Richard Dolewski, Managing Partner says, "we move organizations towards the next generation of information technology with catered solutions that help people, technology, and enterprises stay connected to their data to ensure they keep running smoothly, productively and profitably."

"The expertise that iTINUUM brings will enable Denovo to further enhance our cloud product portfolio by offering Disaster Recovery as a Service "DRaaS." iTINUUM brings a holistic approach to disaster recovery and provides the repeatable data protection and high availability disciplines the industry expects," said Mark Goedde, President & COO.

"We are excited about becoming part of Denovo, a progressive cloud and managed services company," said Richard Dolewski, "Denovo's market presence, wide breadth of professional services and strong brand teamed with our proven disaster recovery expertise in the cloud will allow us to quickly become the leader in Disaster Recovery as a Service (DRaaS)."
